[The clinical imaging of the temporal bone]. A considerable amount of new information has been obtained about the ultrastructure of the normal and pathological mammalian temporal bone during the last few years. Knowledge of the auditory organ and the diverse relationships of the auditory and vestibular apparatus with the brain and the skull is a basis of optimal diagnosis. As the results of better understanding of the physiological, pathophysiological and morphological details of the auditory system, new possibilities of its imaging arise in addition to those existing for the visualization of other (non-auditory) regions of the skull base.Q: How to get all results in one table result set From the following stored procedure I am expecting one result set. CREATE PROCEDURE dbo.usp_GetProjects @ProjectId int AS BEGIN SELECT ProjectId, ProjectName, Description, COUNT() AS TotalProjectCount, CASE WHEN MIN(Id) = MIN(Id) THEN 0 ELSE 1 END AS isDuplicate FROM Project WHERE ProjectId = @ProjectId END Here is the error message I am getting: Conversion failed when converting date and/or time from character string. A: You're passing a parameter to the procedure, but not using it. Pass it to @ProjectId CREATE PROCEDURE dbo.usp_GetProjects @ProjectId int AS BEGIN SELECT ProjectId, ProjectName, Description, COUNT() AS TotalProjectCount, CASE WHEN MIN(Id) = MIN(Id) THEN 0 ELSE 1 END AS isDuplicate FROM Project WHERE ProjectId = @ProjectId END -- passing the parameter to the procedure dbo.usp_GetProjects @ProjectId = 13 -- added to show 1 record "Those laws are not being enforced today, and therefore we are not seeing the change that we want to see in the way that courts are proceeding."

Q: Hibernate Cascade persist and Cascade delete Is it possible to have Hibernate Cascade persist in both directions? i.e. if object b references object a and object a is updated then also update object b? I have defined the Cascade property as follows: What I'm now finding is that hibernate is only persisting and then deleting. But not updating. Is there a combination that will persist and update? A: This is not possible. In the absence of a inverse key, Hibernate has no way to know which object to update. It is able to update one, but not the other. You have two options here: Put both objects in the same table and manage the relationship via SQL queries. Introduce a foreign key in the object A such that you have an Id for it in object B. You can then use Hibernate as normal and do a join to find the matching row in object B and update it. This will work with both Cascade.persist and Cascade.update Personally I would favour the first option. It separates concerns more clearly and makes it more obvious which objects need to be updated. A: Couldn't agree with Andy. I know that you can cascade both persist and merge (or persist and update) but it won't cascade "both way". Update is far from being on the same level as merge. I have my (at least) knowledge of HR/JPA/Hibernate though, so might be some relevant info. BTW, you can cascade both persist and update (as do Andy and I):
