Country Categories: Art Motivation Test Scores: A: The DREAM MONEY project is about to host its first... I want to make a simple CMS (based in Wordpress). I want to keep everything: content, layout, CSS, JS, admin panel. The system will be installed in a hosting provider where the website is already running. What should I install? LAMP MAMP PRO On which hosting provider should I install it? Siteground NotLAMP DigitalOcean I want the system to: Display a RSS feed with the most recent articles Blog for each day / month. Social (Facebook and Twitter). How should I organize the website structure? How should I organize the database? If I'm going for simplicity, which is the best option? It would be great if you could provide me with step-by-step documentation and advice, otherwise I'll try on my own. A: 1) The system will be installed in a hosting provider where the website is already running. I wouldn't use a CMS on a VPS, but your host can provide a way to add CMS to your account. I would look at GoDaddy's Website Builder or UMI's PageFlip as possible options. LAMP MAMP PRO MAMP PRO is probably overkill for what you are doing, but if you are going to be doing any of this on a regular basis, you might as well learn how to configure it. 2) On which hosting provider should I install it? Again, you shouldn't use CMS on a VPS. 3) I want the system to: Display a RSS feed with the most recent articles Blog for each day / month. Again, a CMS isn't the right option. 4) I want the system to: Display a RSS feed with the most recent articles Depending on the way you want things to be done you may have to do this: a) Is the RSS feed something you are generating and then using WordPress to publish? If so, you will want to edit the RSS source. b) Are you using WordPress to create the site? If so, you can put the RSS functionality on /cb139a0ed
