- Perfect Desktop Wallpaper - HD Quality - Free Screen Saver - No ads or pop ups! - Very easy to use. The Brothers Karamazov-English version English text-2009-20-07 (partial) *
"My son," he thought, "the boy will be a clever fellow. He's a quick-witted boy. He'll make his way, and become a learned man, too. But is he... is he good-looking?" "No," thought Alyosha, "not good-looking at all. He has a pale, sickly face; he's thin and low-set, and never seems at his ease." "Tell me, what's the name of the girl who's gone?" "Nikolushka." "She's Nikolushka! What, you know her?" "Only by sight. She's come to visit, but we haven't met. She's staying at a neighboring village, with her grandmother." "Do you think she's pretty?" "I don't know," thought Alyosha. "Of course, she's grown up and is twenty years old, but I can't say that she's particularly pretty." "And why are you so upset?" "Oh, no one has been before, and I'd have been happy if no one had been before me. But she's an educated lady, too, and I don't know her, and I'm embarrassed to meet her." "And why is she an educated lady?" "I don't know, and I'm not interested in knowing. It's just that a lot of water has gone over the mill wheel. If the mill goes, all the rest goes with it." "You're talking nonsense. It's time to be getting to bed, Alyosha." A woman sighed at the table. "It's time." "What is it, mother?" "Nothing. I'll go to bed. I'll sleep." "Go to sleep, and don't think." "I'll go. Good-bye, Alyosha. Good-bye." "Good-bye, mother. Don't be in such a hurry to sleep. I have something to tell you." "Yes, dear, I'll be listening." "Why do you think that I've grown stout?" "I thought you were, dear. I'm not a judge of such things. Why?" "Why, because of my face; I seem to have grown stout. Well, I'm pleased."
