What's new in The Medic:

Silent World is a thriller novel by American author Michael Connelly. Originally published in 2001, it features a retired detective named Jack Vigortone—number 69 on the LAPD's "Most Wanted" list—who manages to recapture his prowess as a police investigator with the help of his equipment and his vivid imagination. It is the last full-length novel to feature solely Vigortone's voice before his resurrection in The Night Fire. The book details Vigortone's battle with a killer whom he suspects is his son.

Publication The start of the novel (Vigortone's sister gets cancer) takes place in 1979 after the events described in The Concrete Blonde. Coincidentally, the title Silent World, which is noted by John Marr in an early short story and mentioned in Adrienne's letters, is one of the fifteen "Silent Worlds" provided by NASA to a group of scientists and engineers who founded the SETI program in 1960. Plot summary The story is told in the third person and is confined to a detached and retrospective view of events.

We are introduced to retired LAPD Detective Jack Vigortone, a private detective for over 25 years. Vigortone is despondent after his daughter, a veteran nurse, became seriously ill. Her health deteriorates slowly and coincidentally, the South L.A. murders appears to increase in frequency. Unwilling to call off work (as he proclaims at one point in the novel), Vigortone puts himself back to work on the cases he loves. In his retirement Vigortone became Vice President for Security for Graumann's Chinese Theater, where the author himself had briefly worked (notably, making the contacts that lead to publishing Rose Garden). Vigortone is master of his "home;" he is attached to it, has a yard where he feeds his pigeons, and even learned how to operate the alarm system without anyone knowing about it. When he is approached by a man who knows one of the men responsible for the murders, he is convinced that they are involved. He allows the man to watch him and his daughter, hoping to clear himself. He offers the man

$25,000 to act as his guide to the bodies and pay him for his time before the man knocks him out and eats his beloved pigeons. Two weeks later a different man contacts Vigortone saying a new
