So I'm currently working on a PHP project where I have a class function called New. This function receives two parameters: $newAge, which is the age of the new user, and $date. So basically what I want to do is take the current age of the $newAge user and use that inside a built function and then pass it back to $newAge and $date. This is what I have tried: Function inside class: function getAge(){ $newAge = $this->age; $date = date('Y-m-d'); //Use
